

What does this remind you of?

What is the opposite of this?

What do you call the things that you are using?

What are some different things you can try?

What might you try instead?

Is there anything else you could do/use?

Can you tell me about the things you have?

What does this make you think of?